Once upon a time, in a far far away land existed a clumsy young woman known as Macy-Clamsy. She had beautiful long hair unlike any other inhabitants in the kingdom. She lived in a small wooden cottage with her taller and friendlier sister, Frandie. As for the firstborn, she had the most precious smile in all the land. People would always talk about the infamous Rupage sisters and envied their beauty. Everyday as requested by their parents, they would take care of the family garden before lunch. But of course, the two sisters would always fight for the most stupid reasons. Frandie would talk to the plants.
