

The prosecutor team will be in charge of proving that Ms. Goldilocks is guilty of all or some charges. You will need to create an opening argument and a closing argument. You will also be in charge of asking appropriate questions to the different witnesses going to the stand. They will be in charge of making sure the plaintiff is fully satisfied of the outcome of the trial. This part of the trial requires a lot of preparation and will demand from those two students to know all the details of the case.

The attorney of the defendant will have to prove that Ms. Goldilocks is innocent and that the evidence presented was simply circumstantial. Just like the prosecutor team, they will have to create opening and closing arguments. They will have to ask questions to the different witnesses in order to demonstrate Goldilocks' innocence. This part of the trial also requires a lot of preparation and will demand from those two students to know all the details of the case.

The witnesses of case number #6502 are people who may help find the truth behind Mrs. Bear's accusations. They might have been present the day of the supposed crime. They might be involved in the defendant's life or might be able to highlight important facts about Ms. Goldilocks' alibi. They will have to make sure they know their story extremely well because they will testify in front of the judge, jury and attorneys. They will be asked questions in order to incriminate Goldilocks or prove her innocence. There will be 9 witnesses in this trial: Goldilocks, Goldilocks' mother, Mr. Patrick, a lumberjack, Baby Bear, Mama Bear, the Mail Carrier, Mr. Post, the neighbour, Mr. Bunny and Goldilocks' friend, Anna

The judge will be in charge of the organization of the trial. They will make sure people are respecting the right to speak of everyone. The court must always respect the judge's decisions. The judge will make sure each team will present their arguments in a fair manner.

The jury will listen both the prosecutor and defense arguments. They will have to be as objective as possible and consider all the evidence presented to them. The jury may never speak to anyone during the process of the trial. Once the trial is adjourned, they will have to deliberate and decide if Goldilocks is found guilty or non-guilty. They will then decide the appropriate sentence depending on the verdict. They have the final say in Goldilocks' fate. There will be 5 juries in total.

The Commissioner for Oaths will be the one who will make witnesses swear under oath meaning they will have to tell the truth when the prosecutor and the defense will ask questions. In a trial, this person has an important role as they ensure witnesses do not lie and are ready to be seated when called.

The court reporters will be taking notes of the evidence and the arguments presented throughout the trial. They will then have to summarize the trial to the jury. These people will help deciding on the final verdict of the case.

Their role is extremely important as they lay out all the information in case some was forgotten. They will be 2 reporters.
